The legendary (for their time) radio comedians Lum and Abner make their film debut in a career that would continue in a series of B comedies for RKO. The two are store owners in the town of Pine Ridge, Arkansas, and in this episodic story line they act as fundraisers, matchmakers, and detectives hunting a hit-and-run driver.

Lauck and Goff continue as Lum and Abner in TWO WEEKS TO LIVE, which sends the homey boys to Chicago to claim a railroad they've been willed. They have to come up with a hefty sum of cash before it's theirs, however, sending Goff off on a number of zany expeditions to raise the bills. He learns that he's terminally ill (hence the title) and agrees to be sent to Mars in a rocket.

SO THIS IS WASHINGTON (1943) 64m Jack William Votion /RKO bw

Chester Lauck (Lum), Norris Goff (Abner), Alan Mowbray (Mr. Marshall), Roger Clark (Roger Blevins), Mildred Coles (Jane Nester), Sarah Padden (Aunt Charity), Minerva Urecal (Mrs. Pomeroy), Dan Duncan (Grandpappy), Matt McHugh (Stranger), Barbara Pepper (Taxi Driver).

Radio personalities Lum 'n' Abner (Lauck and Goff) try to help the war effort by inventing synthetic rubber. They take their idea to Washington for some governmental advice, but before long they are the ones giving advice. They offer their commodity of common sense to senators and representatives who are completely bogged down in the bureaucracy. Likeable wartime fluff. p, Ben Hersh; d, Ray McCarey; w, Leonard Praskins, Roswell Rogers (based on a story by Rogers, Edward James); ph, Harry Wild; ed, Duncan Mansfield; md, Lud Gluskin; art d, Hans Peters.

Lauck and Goff take their popular "Lum and Abner" characters off the radio and onto the big screen in this short feature. Fooled by a city slicker, they talk their neighbors into mortgaging their property and investing in a supposed pool of oil beneath the Jot-Em-Down Store. Of course, no oil is found but all is well in the end when the pair unload their property on the city slicker. A pleasant comedy with direction and script adequate for the material and even some showgirls for an added production number.

p, Jack Votion; d, Leslie Goodwins; w, Charles E. Roberts, Charles H. Marion; ph, Robert Pittack; ed, Hanson T. Fritch; md, Lud Gluskin; art d, Alfred C. Ybarra; ch, Paul Osgood.

This was the sixth and final Lum and Abner film (Lum and Abner were radio stars) which tells the tale of how the two got started in the little town of Pine Ridge, Arkansas. In 1904 Goff arrives in town and meets up with Lauck and they romance the women, put out the town's first fire, and start up their Jot-Em-Down Store. In between flashbacks, the duo have to fight off Elliot and Jordan to keep their store and save the romance of two young lovers, James and Loring.

LUM AND ABNER ABROAD (1956) 72m Howco bw

Chester Lauck (Lum), Norris Goff (Abner), Jill Alis (Marianne), Lila Audres (Collette), Branko Spojlar (Papa Possavetz), Gene Gary (Nicky), Vern Mesita (Duchess), Valdo Stephens (Mischa), Steven Voyt (Frankenshpinin), Nada Nuchich (Lisa), Chris Peters (Croupier), Jim Kiley (Tommy Ellis), Joseph Batistich (Dignitary).

This originally was three short television shows based on the famous radio comedy team. However, they were linked together by a narration and released as a sort of three part film. The first story finds Lauck and Goff helping out Alis, a ballerina unlucky in love. She's crazy about a journalist who's missing and the two kindly gents, with the help of the U.S. Embassy, get the lovers back together. Next it's off to Paris where they accidentally get involved with some smugglers. Finally they end up in Monte Carlo, breaking the bank, but settling for $14.80 so that the food citizens won't have to pay any taxes. For their efforts, they are admirably decorated.

p&d, James Kern; w, Carl Herzinger (based on stories by Kem Herzinger); ph, Octavian Miletich; ed, Maurice Wright, Blanche Jens.
